DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Suttner

Suttner shows an intercept valve of a high-pressure spray washing gun, the valve comprising a main body 17 having a tubular conformation, an obturator 25 arranged internally of the main body and mobile as recited, an annular seating for the obturator housed in the main body, an activating pivot 24 of the obturator which is internally slidable in a through-hole in the main body, means 11 or maneuvering which act on the pivot 24, at least one seal 22 arranged at the through-hole about the activating pivot 24, wherein the seal is at least one lip seal contacting against the activating pivot and arranged adjacent to an internal mouth of the through-hole in the main body (see figure 2 included herein).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3752

4. Claims 2 and 3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Suttner in view of Losenno et al.

Suttner discloses the instant invention except for the main body being made of a plastic material and the lip seal being integrated in the main body during a molding process of the main body. Losenno et al. teaches a spray device comprising a molded plastic valve support 218 which would prevent the support from rusting and a seal 52 having a truncoconical shape as recited in claim 3. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the device of Suttner by making the main body from plastic as taught by Losenno et al. to prevent the part from rusting and to have made the seal to be truncoconical since Losenno et al. teach that such shapes for a seal is known in the art. The seal being integrated in the main body and being made during a molding process of the main body is a product by process recitation which is not patentable because whether a product is patentable depends on whether it is known in the art or it is obvious and is not governed by whether the process by which it is made is patentable.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The patents to Petersen et al., Jenkins, Perret et al., and Krohn are pertinent to Applicant's invention.
